Dear Parents, Staff & Students,
What a performance! What excitement! What a day and night for our students and staff in the first matinee and evening shows of ‘Keys To Australia’. Outstanding individual cameos and lively group performances in song, dance and drama kept the audience enthralled right to the end. Congratulations to all those who performed in the first shows on Wednesday. We look forward to this afternoon and tonight for more excellence in the performing arts and music from our talented students.

A Huge Thankyou to our amazing ‘Director and Writer’ Mr Langton for his outstanding work in creating this amazing extravaganza of colour and song.

A huge thanks also to the production committee and all of our staff who patiently rehearsed and assisted in costuming, organising and the myriad of other duties in support of all our students. Another huge thanks to our school community members who helped make this most popular and major school event such a great success. It was wonderful to see the expressions of enjoyment and satisfaction on the faces of students as they played their part in this wonderful production.

CONGRATULATIONS TO ALL INVOLVED.

YEAR 3 & 5 NAPLAN COLLECTION
NAPLAN reports for students in Years 3&5 will be available for collection at the school office from Monday 15th September. On collecting your child’s report you will be asked to sign that the report has been received. Included with the report will be a guide which explains how to read the report. If you require any further clarification please contact your child’s teacher. If you are unable to collect your child’s NAPLAN report from the office and would like us to send it home with your child please advise us in writing or by completing and signing the form included in the NAPLAN letter.

Family relationships and expectations have a major influence on children’s social development. Family relationships set the foundation for children to relate to others. Children learn how to manage relationships by observing the ways that parents, carers and other family members relate to others.

Teach social and emotional skills

Teach children social skills such as listening to others, taking turns, making friends and resolving conflict. Emphasise skills for cooperative and respectful relationships and acknowledge children’s efforts to use them.

Use positive discipline

Setting reasonable expectations for children’s behavior, and communicating them clearly and respectfully, sets the tone for cooperation. Being consistent and positive in your approach to discipline communicates to children that they are valued, even if a particular behaviour is not. Capitalise on ‘teachable moments’

When something happens that requires a response which draws on values, it presents a ‘teachable moment’. Ask children to think about what the problem is and what they could do to improve the situation. For example, when feelings have been hurt you could ask your child’s opinion of what the person might be feeling hurt about. Extend your child’s thinking through asking questions like, “How could you find out what Jo is feeling sad about?” and “What do you think you could do to help?”

Involve children in family discussions and decision making

Encouraging children to contribute to family discussions and decision making gives them practice in listening to others’ views and seeing things from different angles. Listening and contributing to family discussions helps children understand what your values are and shows them that their voices are valued. Involving children in these ways in family discussions and decision making promotes respectful and responsible behaviors.

Promote a strong sense of identity

When parents and carers notice and acknowledge what children do to help, it shows children that their contributions are worthwhile. This gives them a sense of pride and encourages them to ‘do the right thing’. Help children to work out ways to stand up for what they believe in and let them know that you are proud of them when they do. This helps children to build confidence in their own strengths and values.
